- European Sustainability Competence framework (GreenComp)
- New European Bauhaus

Partnership between DG EAC
and JRC

Education for Climate

LET'S CHANGE!

Empowering both young pupils and adults to take concrete action is key.

A green Europe will need more and better knowledge about climate change and sustainability, new skills and a different behaviours.

Making Europe green is a substantial challenge for the education systems in the Member States, which asks for a strategic common approach.

THE COMMUNITY MANIFESTO

What the Education for Climate Coalition aspires to achieve

Inspire, develop and draw on European education capabilities to support the changes needed for a climate-neutral society

by deciding collectively acting collaboratively
adapting sustainably

Advance as a participatory community led by teachers and students with their schools and networks, and other educational actors to work and progress together

Tackle fragmentation between educational sectors, domains, actors and stakeholders, including leadership
